"UR PLACE FOR TEMPORARY ZOMBIE STAFFING!"

THE FRONT DESK

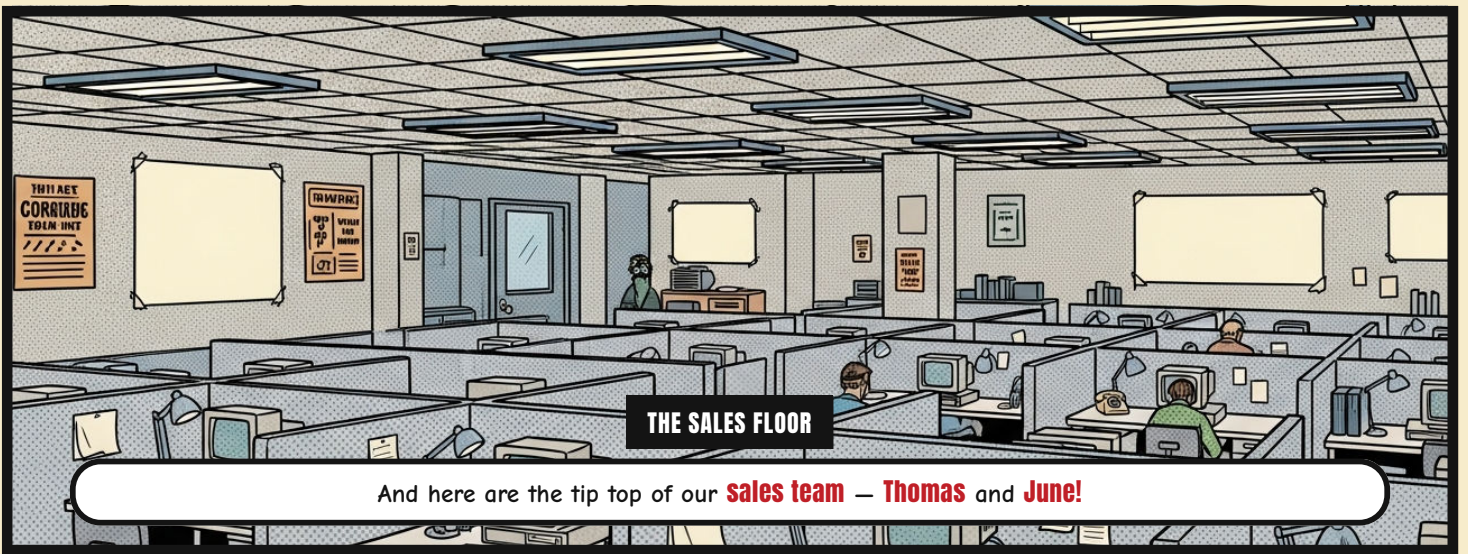

Come on, let me show you around. This is Melody Rogers, our receptionist.

I've actually changed my last name to Darkwood, Jonah.

(embarrassed) Is that what it is this week?

The 'Zombie Apocalypse' didn't last long. Corporate America found a way to capitalize on it pretty quick. But it really messed with my head — Life. Death. Monsters. I used to be a cheerleader.

And here are the tip top of our sales team — Thomas and June!

The empty sales thermometers...

The reason we don't do the thermometers... is they're insulting.

Rentals have been good since Day One. He's honestly a better motivator when he leaves us alone.

After sales, there's only one place left... (spooky) Ooooh, the warehouse! No, it's fine. It's fun.

This is where we store our Undead employees. I love Sarah. We joke around all the time.

Be careful down here. Tuck in your shirts — don't feed the zombies, willingly or unwillingly, if you catch my drift.

"One slip up and you go from being a well-paid member of society to a soulless, rental employee paid in human flesh and eternal suffering. I won't have it."

— SARAH, WAREHOUSE CHIEF

We can house up to 50 undead a day. My job is to process the zombies after capture...

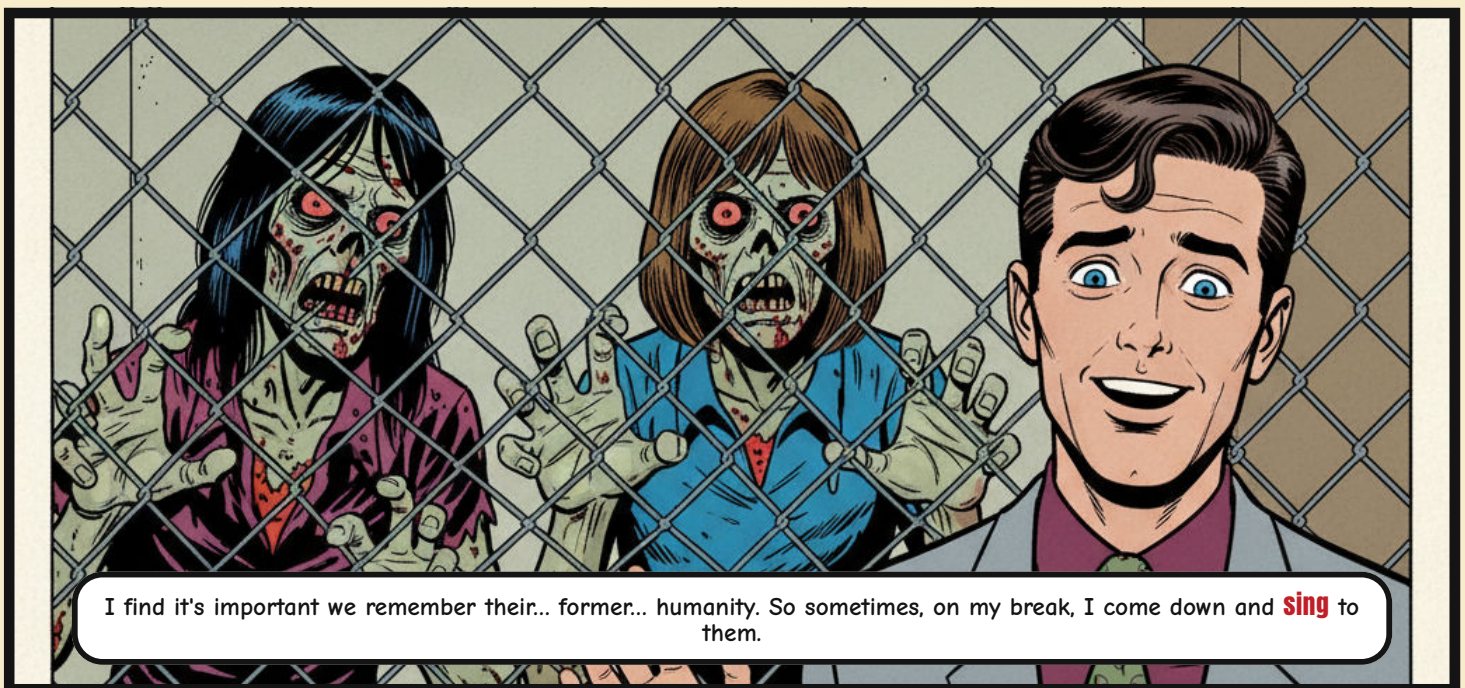

Sedate. Patch the wounds.

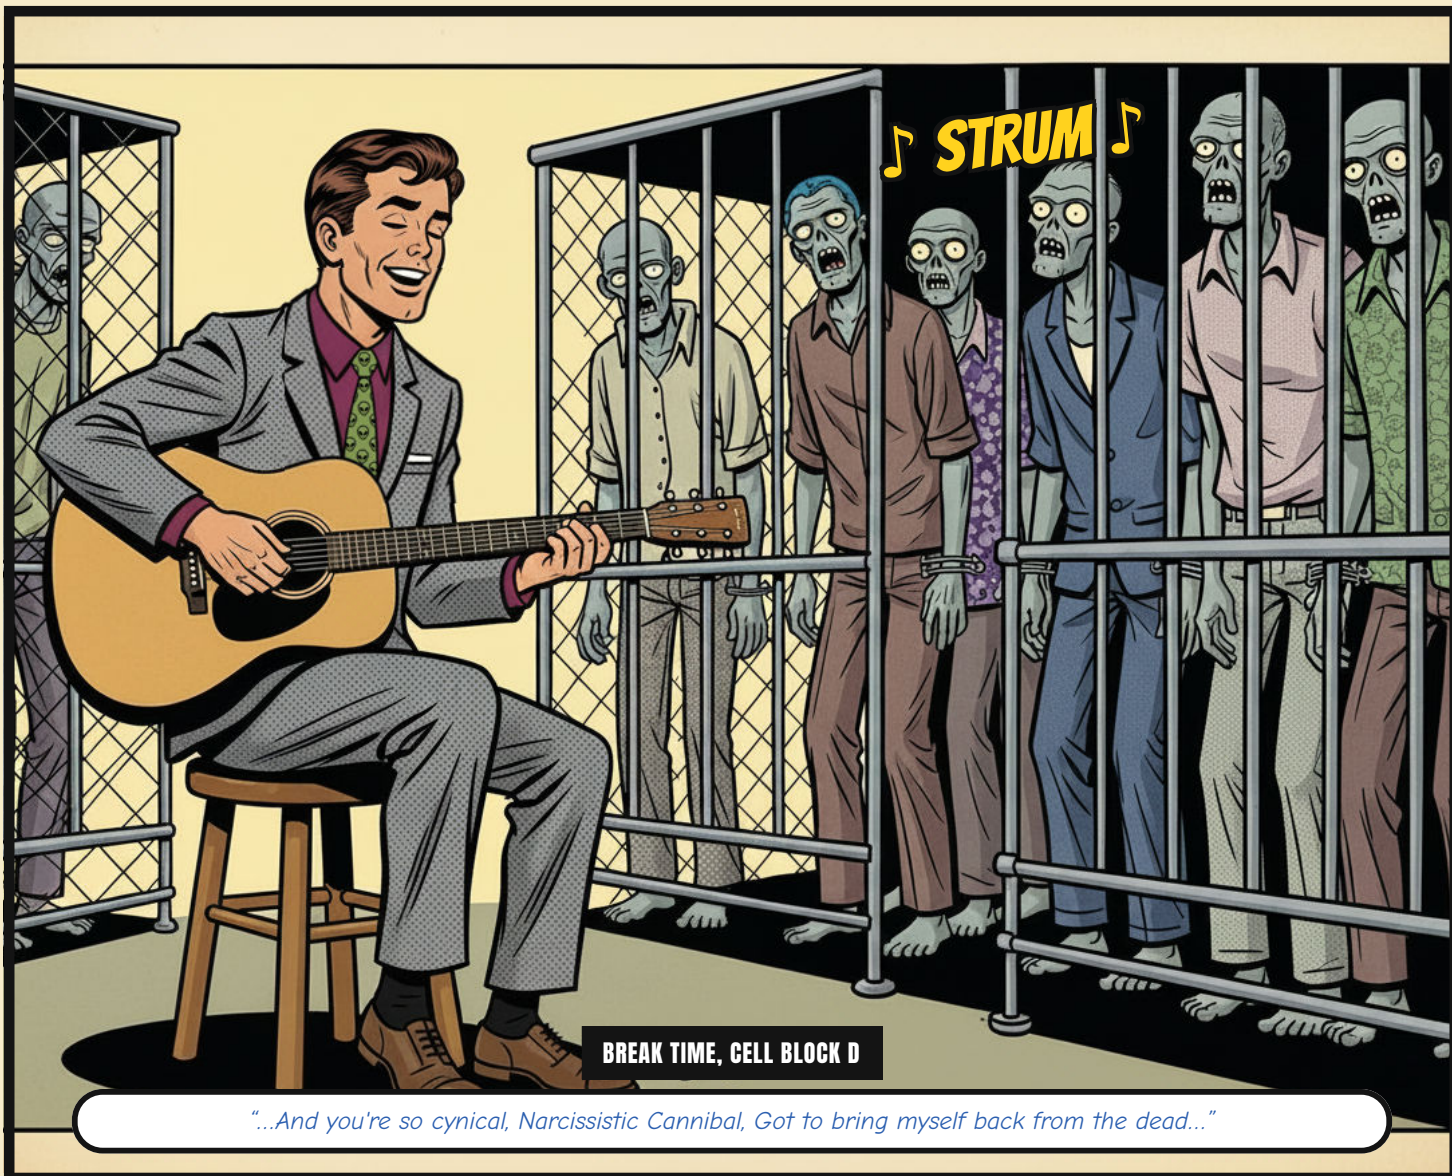

Clean. Dress. Name them.

Classify... and incarcerate.

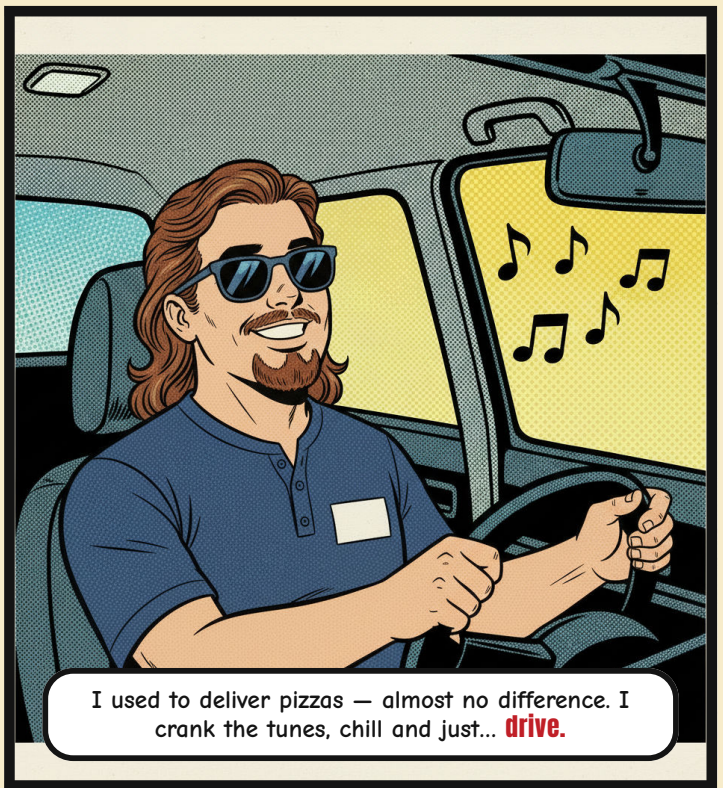

I find it's important we remember their... former... humanity. So sometimes, on my break, I come down and sing to them.

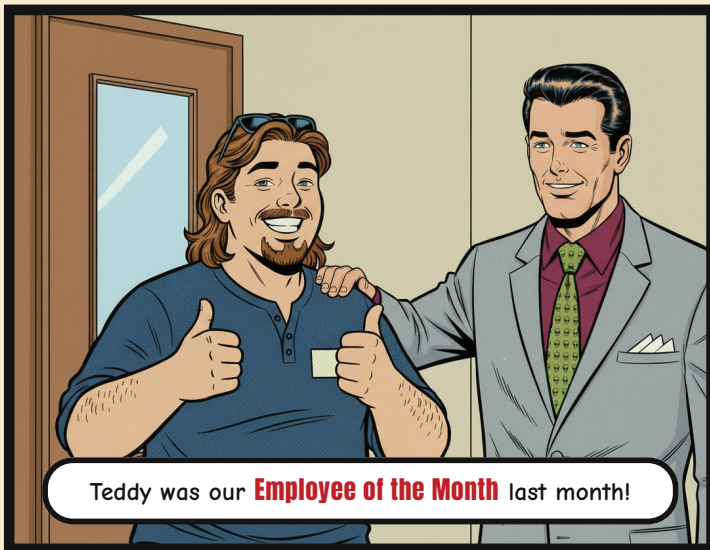

These things are doped up, muzzled and restrained — it's as safe as driving pies across town!

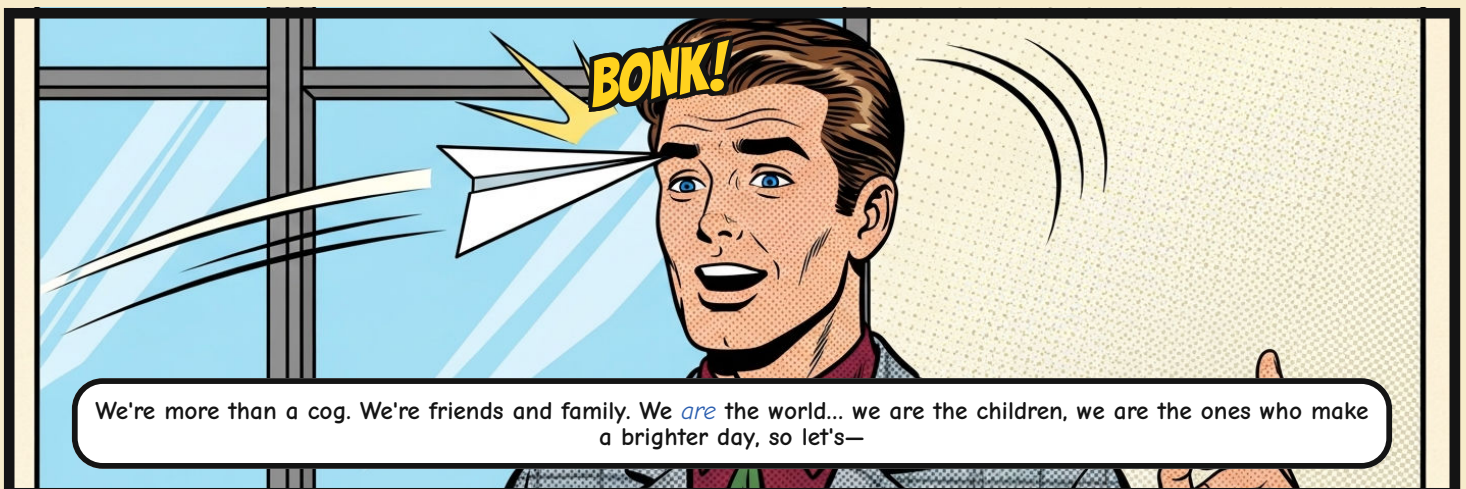

I used to deliver pizzas — almost no difference. I crank the tunes, chill and just... drive.

Teddy was our Employee of the Month last month!

Everybody gets the award once. (long pause) Or so I'm told.

We're more than a cog. We're friends and family. We are the world... we are the children, we are the ones who make a brighter day, so let's—
